Paris Bombed By Six Waves Of Nazi Planes; 35 Civilians Reported Dead

THE Book Mark

A few years ago a little old man in his seventies walked into the largest store in the world, Sears, Roebuck & Company, saying he would like to have a job. That man was Colonel Alvah Roebuck, co-founder with Richard Sears of the mighty Sears Roebuck in 1886.

In 1895 Alvah Roebuck sold his one-third interest in his business for $20,000. Today it would be worth about $150,000,000. Does he regret it? Not at all. His co-workers are dead but he is back in the business and going strong.

We gathered this information from a lively and entertaining chronicle by David Cohn called "The Good Old Days," a history of American morals and manners as seen through the Sears, Roebuck Catalogues, 1905 to the present. It is the history of the plain, everyday folk who make up the bulk of our population for the past 35 years. Mr. Cohn who has a background with which to work, examines the catalogues and gives the results in the most engaging manner.

Some of you remember how in 1905 the piano was a significant piece of furniture. "They have a piano!" And it was tacitly understood that "They" were among the socially acceptable. In fact, it is possible that there were more pianos than bath tubs in the home—the bath tub had not yet come into its own.

In the rural districts, the organ was preferred. "The Golden Oak Wonder" sold for $19.90. Who remembers when the zither—one of Sears prominent exports—was as popular as the saxophone is today?

You will chuckle over the talking machine and its records. In 1905, the immortal Sousa was having his day—Coon songs were then shouted instead of crooned. As for the sentimental songs, they included "The Mansion of Aching Hearts," "The Patal Rose of Red," "Hello, Central, Give Me Heaven," "I'm Wearing My Heart Away For You"—we could go on indefinitely as the list is a long one, but read it for yourself.

We should skip the book section, but we can't resist listing a few of the early favorites. The Elsie books, of course. Mr. Cohn quotes generously from one or two in order to refresh your memory. He does the same for the Rollo books. In 1905 there were self-teaching books in many fields from "French Without a Master," to "Carriage and Wagon Painting," for those in favor of the more practical pursuits. You could purchase a complete set of "The Decline and Fall of the Roman Empire" for $1.85. Come to think of it, that must be where our second hand copy came from originally. The print and binding do not encourage reading.

In 1915 "A Lover's Guide and Manual" was provided for the difficult also an aid to the writing of love letters. In 1925 Sears offered a "Learn to be Popular" for 93c. Ten years later Walter Pitkin's "Life Begins at Forty" was advertised with headlines. Mr. Cohn makes this deduction from his survey—not a happy one—in later years fewer books have been advertised and the books have been of an inferior quality.

SCHOOL VOTE ON FRIDAY

Trustees To Be Named In All Districts; Three H. S. Candidates

The regular annual school election will be held in the county on Friday, June 7th, with one trustee to be named in all districts, either by election or by appointment.

In the several grade school districts, in addition to voting for a district trustee, the voters also will cast their ballots in the election of two members of the governing board of the high school.

The polling places for the election will be in the several district school houses of the county, and Placerville voters will cast their ballots at the grammar school.

On the high school board, the terms of Swift Berry and Andrew Marchini are both candidates for re-election. Lloyd L. Vye has also filed nominating papers as a candidate for election to the board.

In the grade school districts, only one contest is indicated and that is in Ringgold district in which Albina Zandonella, incumbent and a candidate for re-election, is opposed by Irene Buhlert. If contests develop in other districts, they will be conducted upon a write-in basis.

The grade school districts in which there are duly filed candidates for election as trustees are as follows:

Buckeye, J. S. Chaix, candidate to succeed himself; Camino, W. A. Caldwell, incumbent, Lola Schwartz, candidate; Canyon Creek, Harry R. Stevens, incumbent, Oscar A. Ransom, candidate; Coon Hollow, Adrienne Liddicoet, candidate for re-election; Diamond Springs, Miriam Doe, candidate for re-election; El Dorado, Walter I. Bidstrup, incumbent, Garrett E. Meyer, candidate; Fairplay, Edith B. Park. (Continued on Page 3)

Smoking Ban On Forest

Fireworks Restrictions Also Announced From Supervisor's Office.

The usual regulations and restrictions covering smoking and the discharge of fireworks on El Dorado Forest were announced Monday from the forest headquarters, to be effective on June 5.

Authority for the establishment of the regulations is granted in Regulation T-1, wherein such powers are vested in the Forest Supervisor, acting in the interest of fire prevention and control.

The regulations are as follows: Section H—Smoking is prohibited except at camps, places of habitation, and in special posted smoking areas.

Section M—Prohibits the discharge of fireworks on National Forest lands, or the placing or throwing of a burning cigarette, cigar, match, pipe heels, firecracker or any ignited substance in any place where it may start a fire, with the exception of fireworks, which may be discharged over the waters of Echo Lake, Lake Tahoe, Wrights Lake, Loon Lake, Twin Lakes, Silver Lake and Kirkwood Lake.

A. G. THURMAN, of Colfax, who is a candidate for re-election as Assemblyman for the Sixth District, embracing El Dorado and nine other counties, has announced that his platform will continue the same as the one on which he was elected, "Same Legislation With Economy in Government."

THURMAN FILES CANDIDACY

Colfax Publisher First To File With Clerk In Placer County

Allen G. (Scoop) Thurman, Colfax newspaper editor and state assemblyman representing El Dorado County and nine other mountain counties in the lower house of the state legislature last week filed his nomination papers for renomination at the primary election to be held August 27th. Thurman was the first candidate for any office to file with the county clerk of Placer County.

Thurman filed on both the Republican and Democratic tickets. He has consistently advocated the election of state legislators on a non-partisan basis and in filing on both tickets will leave his candidacy up to the rank and file of the voters of his district who believe in voting for a man of their choice rather than for a candidate selected by some political party or political group. Thurman, who is completing his first term in the legislature states that he is seeking no political endorsements in his campaign for reelection.

In a brief statement, Thurman states that if reelected he will continue to uphold the principles of Americanism and will continue to support sane legislation and economy in government.

In his first term he has consistently fought on the floor of the lower house radical legislation of all kinds. He opposed all legislation detrimental to his district and supported all legislation which he believed would be of benefit to the district and the state as a whole. In addition, Thurman refused to allow political pressure and subversive groups to influence his vote on matters of legislation.

As assemblyman, Thurman has not missed a single day at his desk both during the regular session of 1939 and the two special sessions of 1940. He believes that the experience he gained as a result of serving in the state's history is of value to not only himself but to the people of his district as well.

JOHN W. THOMPSON, OF CAMINO, LAID AT REST SUNDAY AFTERNOON

Funeral services were held Sunday at Camino under the auspices of the Dillinger chapel for John W. Thompson, 83, who died in Placerville Friday evening.

Mr. Thompson, a native of England, had lived in the Camino district for the past forty-four years and owned a small ranch, where he made his home.

In earlier years employed by the lumber company, Mr. Thompson also engaged in farming. He has no known relatives although during his long residence at Camino he won many friends who will remember him with kind thoughts for his neighborly virtues.

ECONOMY FOR DEFENSE

Roosevelt Hopes To Use Savings In General Fund To Finance Armaments

By DONALD G. VAN TINE
United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, (UP)—President Roosevelt today began work on a program to reduce general government expenditures by 10 per cent and apply the savings to the national defense fund.

He scheduled a conference with Budget Director Harold Smith on ways of impounding part of the normal appropriations for the various executive departments.

White House Secretary Stephen T. Early said the President believes that 10 per cent is the proper cut which can be made. Mr. Roosevelt also realizes, he said, that some departments cannot give up their appropriations and may even incur deficiencies. This would be particularly true of the state department, he added.

The question of general salary reductions has not come under consideration, Early said. He added the administration hopes that increased defense expenditures will result in considerable re-employment and permit a reduction in relief expenditures.

Early pointed out that frequently, under normal conditions, a certain amount of budgeted appropriations are saved and returned to the treasury each year. For the fiscal year 1939, such savings amounted to $179,534,000, he said. In fiscal 1940, which ends June 30, a total of $184,978,000 should be returned.

Early said that it is hoped the normal savings for fiscal 1941 would exceed this $134,000,000. He explained, however, that no definite figure could be set at this time.

Early's announcement came after Mr. Roosevelt had conferred with his legislative leaders, presumably about the economy move, the dispute over his request for added authority over the national guard, and other aspects of the defense program.

Sen. Harry F. Byrd, D. Va., has announced his intention of seeking a mandatory 10 per cent reduction in all non-defense appropriations, including a cut in congressional salaries.

Bartletts Lose To Roseville

First Half Winners Nose Out Home Team 8 To 7 In Fast Game

Roseville's heads-up Wolf & Royer baseballers, Placer Nevada League first half winners skinned the Bartletts, 8 to 7 in Sunday's heated game at Bennett Park due to the fact that Placerville clouters failed to crash through in the pinches.

The contest was chuck full of everything that goes to make up a good ball game, excepting perhaps walks and double plays.

"Dapper Dick" Michaels hurled a mighty fine game for Sam Hern's cohorts. He struck out one batter in the 1st, 4th, 6th, 7th and 9th frames, whiffing two in the 8th. Dick clouted two bingles as his contribution with the stick.

Ambassador Bullitt Has Narrow Escape As Bomb Falls On Luncheon Guests

LONDON, (UP)—An exchange telegraph dispatch from Paris today said it was believed about 35 civilians, including one American, had been killed in the German Air raid. Six German planes were reported shot down.

PARIS, (UP)—Six waves of German bombers swept over Paris today, dropping a score of bombs on the open western section of the city and narrowly missing United States Ambassador William C. Bullitt.

A bomb fell through the ceiling of a building where Minister of Air Laurent Eynac was giving a formal luncheon.

The bomb missed Bullitt, one of the guests, by less than 10 feet, it was reported. He was not injured.

COMING OUT OF HIS 20-YEAR NAP

Jane Hall, girl detective, is summoned to the home of Emery Harding on Skeleton Island, off the coast of Maine, to guard his daughter Audrey, whose life has been threatened in a letter, typewritten in red, demanding that Harding relinquish a valuable ruby he bought from an old sea captain, Albert Santrey. He also sends for Bruce Kirby, young museum curator. That night, Santrey is murdered—poisoned by a deadly snake's venom injected with a hypodermic needle. Then a servant Drumm is killed. A little later, Harding is attacked in the same manner as Santrey. There is a chance of saving him, but while Kirby is keeping vigil at his bedside, some one on the terrace outside the room shoots Harding dead and wounds Kirby. Two of the other house guests, Frank Bitherbee, Audrey's fiancé, and Dr. Straater family physician, find them. As the doctor is treating Kirby's wound, there comes a knock on the door.

CHAPTER XXVIII
BITHERBEE went to the door, unlocked it, and opened it.
Jane, a coat thrown 'round her, stood in the hall. She looked surprised at the sight of Bitherbee.
"Where's Bruce? What's happened?"
Then she saw him—sitting on the floor with Dr. Straater binding his head. She cried out and darted toward him.
Bitherbee closed the door hastily to the bed, and jerked the covers over Harding's dead face before she could get a glimpse of it.
"Darling!" Jane cried, bending over Kirby. "You're hurt!"
Kirby's face split in a sickly grin. He patted her shoulder reassuringly.
"I'm all right, Jane. Really." She gripped his hand. "How serious is it, Doctor?"
"Bah!" grunted Straater. "A flesh wound. He'll live to be shot at again."
"Shot at?" Jane exclaimed.
"Is that a threat, Doctor?" queried Kirby.
He disappeared into the bathroom.
"Whatever happened, darling?" asked Jane.
"I wish I knew," said Kirby. "Emery was coming along fine. His pulse was up near normal and he had just regained consciousness. He seemed to be trying to tell me something when I suddenly felt something hit my head and went out like a light. He hesitated for a second. 'He's dead, you know, Jane.'"
"Mr. Harding?" Jane glanced toward the bed.
"Yes. Shot. I suppose by the same gun that nearly got me. The killer evidently thought I was finished, too, and went away."
"But, Bruce haven't you any clue as to who it was? Had you seen anyone prowling around? Did you?"
"Say," Kirby interrupted. "I did. At that. Just before this happened. Madame LeRoux tried to get into the room. The door was locked, but I opened it and surprised her."
"What did she want?"
"She said she wanted to know how Emery's ankle was."
"All right, Kirby," growled Dr. Straater, approaching with a hypodermic needle.
"What's this?"

LONGEST BRIDGE OF FLOAT TYPE TO OPEN ON JULY 2

OLYMPIA, Wash. (UP)—The world's longest and largest floating bridge, crossing Lake Washington from Seattle to the eastern shore, will be opened to traffic July 2, the state toll bridge authority has announced.
The 6,561-foot floating concrete span will cost $8,854,000, of which $5,060,000 is in bonds to be paid out of tolls and the rest a PWA grant. The bridge and its companion highway links will cut 14 miles off the route from Seattle across the main pass over the Cascade Mountains to eastern Washington.
The longest previous floating bridge is in Tasmania and measures only 3250 feet. The Lake Washington bridge is made up of 25 floating sections 60 feet wide each. It will have four traffic lanes and two pedestrian walks.
The bridge will have a 202-foot movable section through which the pleasure and commercial boats can pass. It will be anchored to the bottom with 64 anchors weighing 65 tons each.
The hollow pontoon sections will have 8-inch walls and 96 cells within each section to make them water tight. It will float 7½ feet above the water level of the lake, which never varies much during the year.

Paris Bombed By Nazis

blow against the Allied armies appeared to be Adolf Hitler's objectives as Nazi air and land power was turned increasingly against France.

The battle of Flanders—admittedly won by Germany—went on before the devastated French port of Dunkirk, where the last British and French soldiers fought against great odds with courage that aroused the admiring comment of the Berlin newspapers.

The intentions of Italy also remained vague, although both Britain and France were prepared for action by Premier Benito Mussolini this week. Many observers have assumed he would get into the war as soon as he was assured that Germany's seizure of channel ports would permit a quick victory with the help of Italy, but there was no definite indication that the fascist premier had yet been convinced.

THE SPIRIT OF

by JOHN CLINTON

She was pretty and young. She had big brown eyes. She had dark, dark hair and a Ford roadster. Into the Union Oil Station down on the corner she drove with the above mentioned accompaniments, and fifty empty toy balloons.

"Would you please blow up these balloons for me?" she asked the young chap who was on duty.

And the y.c.w.o.d. took one look at her and sighed an enthusiastic affirmative.

It seems she was having a party at her house and the balloons would be lots of fun, and she had blown up ten and then her breath gave out. And her dad said he'd bet the boys at the Union Oil Station would help her out. (P.S. They did!)

Now the whole point of this thing is not so much that the boys blew up balloons for a pretty gal. But what intrigued me was that her dad thought of the Union Oil men as being likely to help.

I think that "being likely to help" is a reputation to be earned above a reasonable amount of riches.

And I'm not by any means sure but that willingness or neighborliness, or whatever you call it, isn't one of the chief reasons why Union Oil Stations are so popular in the West.

By CHARLES F. STEWART
Central Press Columnist

IF A REPUBLICAN is elected president next November, it already has been remarked that he'll have a Democratic senate on his hands for at least two years.

Justice McReynolds

This, of course, is because only one-third of the senators' terms expire at the same time. And the senate is so strongly Democratic now that, if the Republicans win every one of this year's vacancies, they still won't have a senate majority. They'll have to wait, at the earliest, until the next election day.

That will mean an uncomfortable two years for the Republican president, supposing that a Republican is chosen. However, assuming that he turns out to be satisfactory and popular, he probably will get the kind of senate he wants in 1942. He won't be stymied indefinitely.

But the supreme court? It will take heaven alone knows how long for any president to make over that outfit into an anti-New Deal group.

Just one lone member of that bench is of the old-fashioned conservative pattern—Justice James Clark McReynolds. Chief Justice Charles Evans Hughes and Justices Harlan F. Stone and Owen J. Roberts ante-date the Roosevelt regime, but even they don't class as out-and-out Tories.

Yet, for the sake of argument, let's group Hughes, McReynolds, Stone and Roberts together.

A Definite Minority

Still they're a minority. The majority consists of Justices Hugo Black, Stanley Reed, Felix Frankfurter, William Douglas and Frank Murphy. And they have been ardent New Dealers!

Whatever president would like to reorganize that quintet will not be delayed for any mere two years. He'll be tied up until the whole five of them die off gradually. They're comparatively young, too. It will take a succession of several presidents to attend to them.

How the supreme bench lines up at present was illustrated recently by its decision on the question of labor's right to picket a strike-bound employer's establishment.

Justice Murphy read the court's finding. It was to the effect that picketing is a form of free speech—consequently strictly constitutional. That was the view that Murphy might have been expected to take. Justice Black, Reed, Frankfurter and Douglas agreed with him.

That also was to have been expected.

Verdict a Surprise

Advance guesses were made to the purport that Chief Justice Hughes and Justices Stone and Roberts would be conservative enough to take an anti-picketing attitude. But they didn't. They voted with the New Dealers.

Justice McReynolds was the lone dissenter.

The fact is that Chief Justice Hughes and Justices Stone and Roberts have turned more liberal in the last few years than was anticipated when they were appointed.

Paradoxically, Justice McReynolds was considered a pretty good liberal at the time he was appointed. The court then was mulling conservative and he was regarded as promising to be a very modifying influence. Instead, he's the sole survivor of the court's "last man" conservative club.

A Good Lawyer

McReynolds is a corking good lawyer. His own associates, while disagreeing with him, say his legal reasoning is sound, according to his beighted lights.

McReynolds isn't an ugly old man; he's likable.

Anyway, the federal supreme court is due to be a bad headache to a comparatively conservative administration, if it happens to get in.

With political good luck it can get the sort of congress to support it by 1942, after a couple of miserable years in the meantime. But, naturally, its opponents will fall back on the supreme court to nullify congress as much as possible.

The supreme court can't do it 100 per cent, but it's quite potent.

Well, this is a government of "checks and balances."

MYSTIC WILL APPEAR IN PLACERVILLE UNDER CLUB SPONSORSHIP

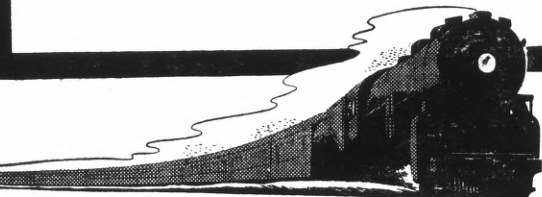

Pierce, mystic who has amazed thousands with his feats of black magic and has renewed interest of countless thousands here in America and abroad in the black arts will be the feature attraction of the week, when he invades the Shakespeare Clubhouse with his show of wonders, Monday, March 10, sponsored by the Placerville 20-30 Club. Pierce became the master of the art of hypnotism while living with his parents who were missionaries in Bombay, India, and was taught by an Indian fakir, who saw in the youth great promise in the occult sciences.

Not only is he a hypnotist of great note but a magician of amazing skill. His enchanted handkerchief is an adaptation from the fakirs who by playing a reed-like instrument issued forth weird tones which turned the deadly cobra into a docile swaying, obedient to their desires.

The illusion of the vanishing head is another of Pierce's effects which is guaranteed to strike horror into the hearts of the most calloused thrill seeker.

BAUMHOFF DREDGING REPORT SHOWS NET PROFIT OF $20,433.50

The success of gold dredging operations in Idaho in which Fred Baumhoff, of Placerville, is engaged is reported in a recent issue of Western Mining News as revealed in reports filed with the county assessor of Idaho County, in which the operations are being carried out.

The report was filed by Mr. Baumhoff's partner, E. H. Fisher, and covers also another dredging operation in which Mr. Fisher is interested individually.

The Baumhoff-Fisher partnership in a report filed the first week in May reported a gross yield of $42,774.78 and a net profit of $20,433.50. Dredge operations cost $21,422.75, repairs and improvements $579.40 and transportation $339.13.

The Warren Dredging Company is the other concern for which Mr. Fisher reported, showing a gross yield of $224,226.59 and a net return of $119,557.96.

THE BOOK MARK

the savior of her sex, are pitched in an emotional key. Lydia died rich and prosperous in 1883 but her Compound goes marching on. Mr. Cohn descants on the fake nostrums that were favorites before the days of vitamins.

And the Cosmetics of 1905! Among the favorite odors in perfumes were Jockey Club, New Mown Hay, Shannon Bells, White Rose, Yland-Lang. Perfumes in 1905 sold from 20c to 30c an ounce. Twenty years later Coty's perfumes are listed at $5.79 for two ounces, from which we gather that the lowliest of us demand the same luxuries as Grenda Frazier or Joan Crawford.

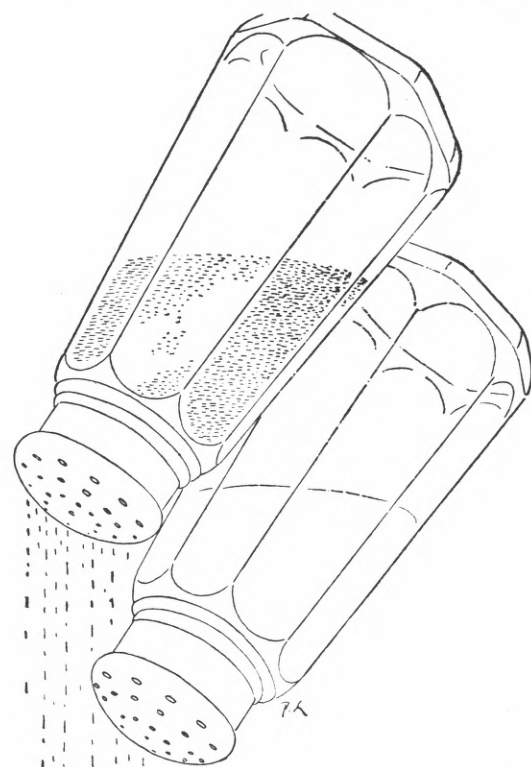

You will read how the paragon ceased to be part of milady's costume in 1915, how the shirtwaist was an important item in the feminine wardrobe of 1905 as no less than 150 models were shown priced from 39c to $6.95. May we remind you that at that same time women were wearing that most unbecoming garment called a wrapper. Sears has been quick to trade on the glamour note in woman's apparel. A formal may cost only $2.98 but it is enhanced with the name of moonlight sonata or waltz song.

We must say just a word about hats. "Nobby" was the word for the smart hat in 1905 which was either a charlotte Corday model available for $2.05 or a Gainsborough effect priced at $4.50. Percalé sunbonnets were offered for 15c. In 1915, you will read how "the neat little number" of crushed velvet and silk roses was all that a woman could desire.

Incidentally, Mr. Cohn draws this moral from the clothes angle of the catalogues—First, a tendency toward simplicity, second a tendency to level style so that the middle class dress in almost the same way as the rich and finally the recent development, accent on youth.

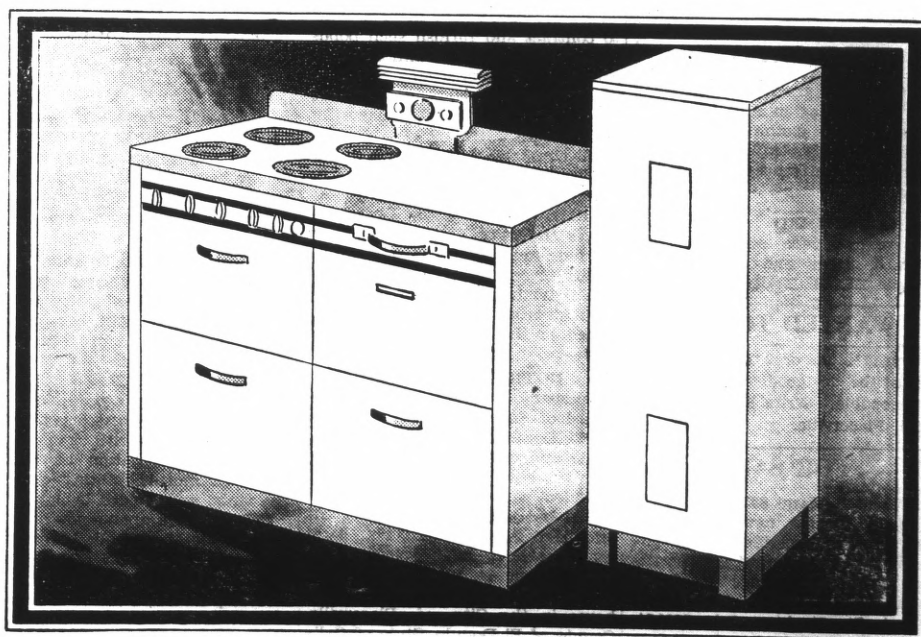

"The Good Old Days," is not only amusing, it is a shrewd recapitulation of the past 35 years in American life. We recommend it whole heartedly.

ELECTRIC RANGE and WATER HEATER

If you are buying an automatic electric range for your kitchen read this advertisement carefully.

You expect a modern electric range to take charge of cooking and to produce cooking results better, easier, simpler and in the same economical way other electrical servants work for you in your home.

That is what an electric range will do. Thousands of California women who cook electrically have found this out.

However you may not give much thought to the automatic electric water heater. That is a mistake. The electric water heater is a true companion to the modern electric range. They belong together in the kitchen. When you buy BOTH the electric range and the electric water heater monthly payments are only slightly higher. Most important of all is that when you add the electric water heater it operates on the very lowest electric rate.

"Summerize" your kitchen with an electric range and water heater. They are daily helpmates you would never part with, once you use them.

LEGION SPONSORS CARNIVAL AT FAIRGROUNDS ON JUNE 11 TO 16

Bowen's Joyland Shows, one of the largest of its kind in the history of carnival, will present the many rides, shown and concessions at El Dorado County Fairgrounds, June 11 to 16, inclusive. When the show arrives with the long line of trucks and equipment, it is a likeness to a small city, inasmuch as hundreds of people travel with the show. It is this group who is always thinking up ways and means of amusing others in the many places they perform.

Joyland Shows are being sponsored in El Dorado County by the American Legion Post, at Placerville, and Mr. Bowen, owner and general manager, is making a special effort to give the people of this community the very best entertainment possible. He has gone to an extra expense to furnish many new and novel attractions during Joyland's stay in Placerville from June 11 to 16, at the El Dorado County Fairgrounds.

SORRY AND MORE SORRY

PASADENA, (UP)—When a woman ran her automobile into a eucalyptus tree at the Pasadena Rose Bowl, she was "so sorry" about it that the park superintendent became so sorry for her and let her off with the payment of $15 merely for ruining the tree. The next day the official was sorry that he had been sorry when the woman returned and asked where she could present her bill for $8.50 for repairs to her car bumper.

Mr. and Mrs. William Cumming, Jr., and Mrs. Mary Jane Elliott were among the weekend visitors at San Francisco.

PAIR PLEAD GUILTY IN BURGLARY OF COTTAGE

In the matter of the burglarizing of a summer cottage owned by J. A. Yenni, of Sacramento, which came before Judge George H. Thompson Monday afternoon, both defendants entered guilty pleas. Both made application for probation and both will hear their fate Friday afternoon.

The two are Howard Wyatt, charged with burglary, which the court determined to be a burglary of the second degree, and Albert White, charged as an accessory after the fact.

They had been arrested by Sheriff Smith and Deputy E. Y. Gray last week along with a juvenile boy who will appear in juvenile court on Friday.

The sheriff reported that virtually all of the goods taken from Yenni's cottage, which is on the American River canyon slope north of Sportsman's Hall, was recovered.

The three were arrested in connection with the burglary as a part of an investigation of gasoline and tool thefts from the Forest Service, launched by the sheriff and Ranger M. D. Morris, of Pacific District. It is charged they also are responsible for breaking a lock on a Forest Service tool box but the present indication is that they may not be immediately brought to an accounting on this charge.

Under federal regulations, a hearing on this matter would come before the United States District Court, at Sacramento.
